

CABO SHARK DIVE

MARLIN/MAG BAY EXPEDITION

An incredible Eco-tourism adventure that explores a hidden Baja and inspires connection with the ocean.

Every year starting in October, bait balls of sardines and mackerels congregate offshore from Magdalena Bay. Finned predators chase the bait to the surface and winged predators take advantage from the surface. It's a natural spectacle of epic proportions. Some have even deemed this feeding frenzy the Mexican Sardine Run, named after the famous South African Sardine Run. It's an opportunity to see a variety of ocean wildlife up close and personal with the Striped Marlin being the stars!

We offer shared and private expeditions to Mag Bay every October to December. Our trips are intimate groups with a maximum of 6 guests per boat and an experienced Cabo Shark Dive guide. This special trip requires us to spend maximum time on the ocean exploring. We usually depart from the hotel at 6am and return to the dock at sunset. This gives us the most potential to find the best ocean encounters.

Our boats are super pangas designed specifically for the open ocean. They have shade and enough room for 6 guests plus guide. Onboard we will have high energy snacks, refreshments and a bag lunch.

Logistics:

Fly into San Jose del Cabo International Airport. Most of our guests arrive a few days early or plan to stay a few days after to enjoy primetime Baja dive conditions. We offer a variety of ocean adventures to round out your Baja adventure. On our departure day we will transport from a central meeting point in Cabo San Lucas at 11am and drive the 4-4.5 hours to Puerto San Carlos, Mag Bay.

The ocean surrounding Magdalena Bay, and the entire Baja Peninsula for that matter, are some of the most biologically diverse in the world. 33% of the known marine mammal species in the world can be found in these waters. Every year we are asked by our guests the probability of certain sightings. So we decided to put together a comprehensive list of our past encounters in Mag Bay and when we have the potential to see each species.

Highlighting unique ecosystems with incredible biodiversity that inspires you everywhere you look.

This annual event is one of Baja's best kept secrets. Our home base will be in the sleepy fishing community of Puerto San Carlos in Magdalena Bay. This town has only recently opened to ecotourism. In recent years this place has become a destination for ocean lovers, adventure seekers, and pro photographers.

The ocean is highly productive here and baitfish like sardines and mackerel migrate through the area in the millions. Hundreds of various pelagic predators join in the hunt corraling the baitfish into baitballs. Predators like Striped Marlin push the bait to the surface competing with other predators like dolphins, sea lions, whales and more. Our objective is to find these baitballs and observe in the water until the last sardine.
